The discussion focused on the role of the military and security institutions in providing a conducive environment for advancing the political process and holding free and fair elections during 2023.

The meeting in Tripoli emphasized the following points:

2. Rejection of foreign interference in Libyan affairs.
3. Full commitment to the outcomes of the dialogues between the military and security commanders that were decided during their first and second meetings held respectively in Tunis and Tripoli.
4. Rejection of fighting and all forms of violence throughout the entirety of Libya's territory.

5. Continuation of work towards unifying the military institutions through the Chiefs of Staff; unifying the security institutions; and the rest of the state institutions.
6. Forming a unified government for all Libyan state institutions.
7. Increasing efforts to address the challenges facing those displaced and those affected by fighting and wars.
8. Completion of national reconciliation and reparation efforts.
9. Commitment to pursue elections and the need for the House of Representatives and the High Council of the State to complete the tasks entrusted with them.
